

The Southern Negro

His Hope for the Future

James H. Meredith

EDITOR'S NOTE: James H. Meredith, a 29-year-old Negro, yesterday registered at the University of Mississippi, thereby breaking the color ban at the state university. Meredith was the center of a bitter controversy between the federal government and Mississippi Governor Ross Barnett.

This article was written last March in the form of a letter to JUSTICE reporter Peter Osova '64, who had requested that Meredith write an article for the JUSTICE. It should be noted that, as Meredith writes, "These are off-the-cuff reflections and are not intended to cover the subject or to explore it deeply."